THE ESCAPE OF MR. BRECKIN-RIDGE.—The Cardenas correspondent of La Prensa gives the following interesting particulars concerning these refugees:

· The persons accompanying Breckin ridge are Col. Wilson, ex-aid to Jeff. Davis: Taylor Wood, ex-commander of the Tallahassee; Corporal Russell, two private soldiers and a faithful negro servant, who refused to abandon his master (Breckinridge) in the hour of extremity and peril. The refugees proceed to the capital to day, accompanied by one of our officials, and will be presented to the Capcain-General. They propose taking up their quarters at the Caban Hotel.

Gen. Breekingidge and Col. Wilson state that they were within forty miles of Mr. Davis when the latter was nim the following day. Wood was actually with Mr. Davis at the moment of his wrest, but succeeded in making his escape and joined Gen. Breakinridge. The party then crossed Georgia into Plorida, descending St. John's River in a boat to Jupiter's Inlet, where they met with a party of deseriers from the Federal army.

From these they got a better boat, which they dragged across the country till they reached the sea, where they introched their little vessel, and sailed for the coast of Cuba, which they were formunte enough to reach after three days and nights, passed almost While at sea they spoke a vessel, from which they g t five callons of water and a few biscuits. The night after their arrival at Cardenas they were serenaded by the band of the volum

EFFECTS OF PEACE-REVIVAL OF THE ISMS .- The war killed out or squalched for the time being most of the funciful theories by which the Northern mind had been previously occupied and amused. Socialism, freeloveism, Bloomerism, and a score of like doctrines which had seized upon the minds of idle people, passed out of discussion, and seemed to all appearance dend and buried. Even the spirit of religious fanaticism was tor the time abashed and humbled in presence of the drealfal misfortunes which it had assisted in bringing upon the country. The war is no sooner ended than these elements of social autagonism revive from their ohrysalis-like torpor. The pursons are hard at work endeavoring to stir up the embers of religious strife and persecution. The Boston families are using to raise fresh issues on the negre, not satisfied with having rendered his condition worse than ever. And now, just when we have vindicated our manhood before the world, the Bloomerites have the right of the fair sex to wear the breeches. All this is very progressive and very amusing. It proves the activity of the national mind and is good for the newspapers.

THE COLUMBIA PHENIX, Arrival of Dr. Albert G. Mackey, Collector of the Port.

Dr. Albert G. Mackey, Collector of the Port, says the Charleston Codrier, arrived here on the Albambra yesterday, and met with an enthusiastic reception from a large crowd of friends who had assembled to give him a hearty welcome home.

It having been announced that the Doctor and his lady were expected on the Albambra, a preliminary meeting of his friends was held and arrangements made to give the distinguished old patriot and Unionist a suitable reception. The following gentlemen were appointed to carry out the object of the meeting: S. D. Kirk, Chairman; Lobert James, J. Woodruff, John Cudworth, E. C. Keckley, M. D., T. W. Johnson, H. C. Prince, C. H. Stokes, James White, J. T. Milligan.

In pursuance of a resolution adopted at the meeting, carriages were furnished to convey the Doctor and Mrs. Mackey, escorted by the Committee, to their home.

On the arrival of the Alhambra at the wharf, the Doctor and his lady were whited upon and informed of the precedings which had taken place. Both were taken completely by sur-prise, but readily acquiesced in the wishes of their friends. After a warm shaking of hands all around, the Doctor was escorted by two of the Consuittee from the best to the what! He was introduced to the Chairman by Mr. Robert James, who said: "Allow me, Mr. Chairman, to introduce to you our distinguished and highly horosed fellow-citizen, Dr. Albert G. Mackey, Collector of the Port of Charleston." Port of Charleston.

Mr. Kirk, in behalf of the Committec. said:

Air. Collector: As Chairman of the Committee of Reception, aflow me to extend to you, sir, on your arrival home, our heartfelt welcome. With entirely without esting or sleeping. Joy and pleasure we have read the chronicle of the events as they transpired in the course of your late visit among our brethren of the North. With intense gratification we heard of the universal approbation given to your past course in the severe ordeal and struggle from which the Union and our common country has emerged two o'clock, I went to Kelther's Stable, so triumphantly.

During your absence your friends here, at all times, have kept you in honored and grateful remembrance, as an American patriot incorruptible and unstained. Again allow me, sir, to extend a warm and cordial welcome on their behalf.

Dr. Mackey replied as follows: Mr. Chairman and Fellow-Citizans: This, to me, is quite an unexpected pleasure. I did not anticipate anything more than to pass quietly from the wharf to my home unaniounced on my return to my native soil. I thank you heartily for the kind manner in which you have received me. The state of my health, from the long and unpleasant voyage back, at present prevents me from giving full utterances to the feelings of my heart. It will be my endeavor in the future so to discharge the trust and daties of the position in which our Government has honored me with the approval of its confidence, as to give satisfaction to resumed their conventions to establish | the Government and meet the approbation of my fellow-citizens. Return my warmest thanks to the Committee, Mr. Chairman, for their kindness in this meeting.

The Doctor was then escorted by the Chairman and other members of the Committee to the carriages in waiting. Mrs. M. was escorted by two others of the Committee to a carriage engaged expressly for her reception, when the whole party were conveyed to the family residence in Wentworth street. The crowd upon the wharf then separated.

An officer said he found courting de party because there was a haw agreeable, but court-martialing quite i different.

The Confession of Atzerett. The following is the statement of George A. Atzerott, which was read by his counsel, Mr. Doster, to the military tribuind in Washington: The prisoner Atzerott submits the following statement to the Court-

I am one of the party who agreed to the capture of the President of the United States or any member of the Cabinet, or General Grant or Vice-President Johnson. The first plot to capture failed; the second, to kill, I broke away from the moment I heard of it. This is the way it came about: On the evening of the 14th of April I met Booth and Payne at the Herndon House, in this city, at eight o'clock. He (Booth) said he himself would take charge of Mr. Lincoln and General Grant, Pay e should take Mr. Seward, and I should take Mr. Johns son. I told him I would not do it; that I had gone into the thing to capture; but I was not going to kill. He told me that I was a fool-that I would be hang anyhow-that it was death to every man who basked out, and so we parted. I wandered about the streets till two o'clock in the morning, and then went to the Kimmell House, and from there pawned my pistol at Georgetown, and went to my consin's house in Montgomery County, where I was arrested. On the 19th, after I was arrested, I told Provet Marshal Wells and Provet Marshal McPhail the whole dory; also told it to Captain Monroe, and Colonel Wells told me if I pointed out the way Booth had gone I would be reprieved; and so I told him I thought he had gone down to Charles Courty, in order to cross the Potomic; the arms which were found in my room at the Kirkwood House, and a black to t, do not belong to me; on the aiternoon of the 14th of April Harold collecto see me, and left the coat it is his coat, and all in it belor chiefs marked with his igitials and with the name of his sister, Mrs.

Naylor. Now I will state how I passed the whole of the evening of the 14th of April: In the afternoon, about on Eighth Street, went D, and hired a dark bay mare and rode into the country for pleasure, and on my return put her up at Naylor's Stable; the dark hay horse which I had kept at Naylor's before, on or about the 3d of April, belonged to Booth, and also the saddle and bridle. I had charge of im to sell him, and I do not know what became of him. At about six in the evening I went to Naylor's again and took out the mare. I role out for an liour and returned her to Naylor's. It was then nearly eight o'clock, and I told lim to keep the mare ready at ten o'clock, in order to ! return her to the man I had hired her from From there I went to the Herndon House. Booth sout a mes-sage to the Oystar Bay, where I was, saying he wanted to see me, and I went. Booth wanted me to murder Mr. Jehnson. I then went to the Oyster Bay, on the avenue, above Twelfth Street, and whiled away the time till about ten o'clock. I got the mare, and having taken a drink with the hostler, galloped about town and went to the Kimmel House. From there I rode down to the dejot and returned my horse riding up Pennsyl vania Avenue to Kelther's. From Kelther's I went down to the nave yard to get a room with Wash, Briscoe. He had none, and by the time I got back to the Kimmel House it was near two o'clock. The man Thomas was a stranger I met en the street. Next morning, as stated, I went to my cousin Richter's, in Montgomery
